

The Bailiff

The job of the bailiff is to keep everyone safe in court. Some courtrooms have a bailiff to make sure that no one hurts or frightens anyone. The bailiff wears a uniform.

Often, the police officer who spoke with you may be in court. That officer might also be a witness. If we have any worries or questions about court, we can ask the police officer or the Commonwealth's Attorney.

Can you color the bailiff?
